題組 3

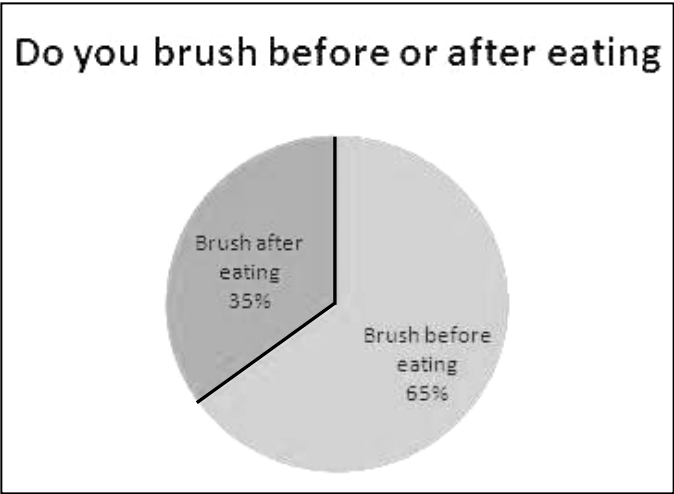

Many people brush their teeth before breakfast because they want to wash away the bad smell in their mouths and they want to eat their breakfast with a nice clean mouth. They don't like the feeling of not brushing. How about you? Do you brush your teeth before breakfast? Is it good for you?

The correct answer is: Brush your teeth after your breakfast.

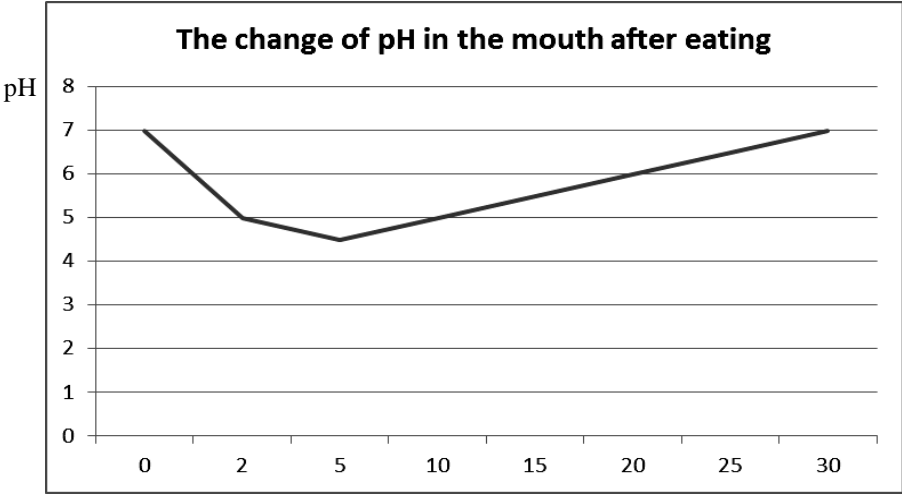

You brush your teeth after breakfast and you can wash away the plaque on your teeth. After breakfast, there is food debris in your mouth during the day before your bed time. The debris can let you have tooth decay. So it's always a good idea to brush it out before your long day.

Also there is one point – After you have fruit, fruit juice or any drinks, wait about 25 minutes before you brush your teeth. They make your enamel on your teeth very weak because the pH in your mouth changes. Don't brush your teeth when your enamel is weak, or you may hurt your teeth.
